

Product Manager, you'll be responsible for a range of products in a specific domain of application that make up our global product offering. You'll ensure that your clients and production teams always have useful and high-performance products, collaborating closely with developers, designers, and researchers to do so. Always in tune with the end-user community, you'll bridge the gap between the clients' needs and product capability. Responsible for delivering quality products, you'll make sure that the products you're entrusted with are continuously improved, adding value after each iteration.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Meet with users to understand requirements, create the product vision and bring the products to life from concept to delivery
- Together with Product Owners, determine the product strategy and manage the product roadmap
- Guide execution with the development team against our plan, making tradeoffs and anticipating
- Communicate with the users and the development team often to ensure clarity and agreement
- Build trusted relationships with strategic partners and clients
- Follow technical trends in the industry and maintain your product expertise
- Assess the latest products for their potential value and make recommendations for new technologies
- Provide internal and customer training on how to use the product
- Help create and maintain proper product documentation

QUALIFICATIONS

Required

- 4+ years of experience in a product role at a digital media organization, ideally in the sports or gaming space
- Strong ability to create and track product roadmaps
- Interest and knowledge of gaming space
- Bachelor's degree or equivalent work experience